From parents to researchers, transitional kindergarten has share of fans and critics

FLORIDA TODAY

By Mackenzie Ryan

INSIDE

A TOUGH CALL

Brevard’s prices, climate woo the wealthy

Areas most losing their residents to us? New York, S. Florida

Tommy and Mary Beth Corrigan and their three children recently moved to Brevard from Queens, N.Y.

The retired firefighter and his photographer wife — who both had lived in Florida for a short period years ago — are now located in Port St. Lucie, where they purchased a 5,500-square-foot home in Vero Beach. What drew them was the area’s cost of living and proximity to New York. They say, “It’s a shorter drive to New York’s parks, its food and its deal-making, but not to the Empire State’s cost of living. And their children will grow up with sunshine, beaches and more. "This is a moister area for the kids to grow up, and it’s not as congested as New York," said Tommy Corrigan, 44, who jumped the red-state-to-blue state migration. They say they’re enjoying their move and that Brevard County have a really good reputation, and that was the big thing that attracted us to this area."

Thousands of others apparently feel the same, flocking to Florida and Brevard because of

See WEALTH, Page B4

INSIDE

BY THE NUMBERS

663 KINDERGARTNERS
or 12 percent of the kindergarten class were retained, including both TK1 students and kindergarten repeaters.

8,364 KINDERGARTNERS
or 41 percent, were held back across Florida

Source: Florida Department of Education

PUBLIC INTEREST

Is Obamacare worth the costs?

Florida premiums to rise, but they offer something in return, Public Interest Editor Matt Reed writes. Page 20A

SPACE COAST

Happy Birthday, Coast Guard

Rain doesn’t deter hundreds from attending the 22nd anniversary event at Port Canaveral.

Page 1B

SPORTS

Love of sport fuels coach

Strategy board game inspired Palm Bay High coach Dan Burke to coach football.

Page 1C

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

Glasses made in an hour or two in most cases.

321-259-3935 •

Students sit in Barbara Mazuro’s TK-1 class at Meadowlark Elementary School in West Melbourne.

MOMSENSE: ROYAL'S BELLY NICE SIGHT TO SEE

Mary Jo Walters of Palm Bay marks “Green Eggs and Ham” with her daughter China Holiday. S. Walters said she wishes China would not have been enrolled in a TK1 class.

See TK1, Page 3A

GREETINGS

Happy Birthday,

SPORTS

DOLPHINS, COWBOYS KICK OFF NFL PRESEASON TONIGHT

ACTIVITIES SUBMISSION

Activates your digital access at www.floridatoday.com/activate or call toll free 321-242-3868 today.

IN STYLE

MOMSSEN: ROYAL'S BELLY NICE SIGHT TO SEE

Opal Anderson enjoys what’s left of serenity in rural Palm Bay.

IN STYLE

Hitting a high note

Music store owners boost business by adding lounge, stage in business

SUPERSTORE

We Pay For Your Eye Exam

We Pay For Your Eye Exam

See WEALTH, Page 8A

FLORIDA TODAY

A GANNETT COMPANY

AUGUST 4, 2013 | SERVING BREvard COUNTY SINCE 1866 | FLORIDATODAY.COM

A TOUGH CALL

By Mackenzie Ryan

A TOUGH CALL

The fifth-grade year as a fresh

Start. Column, Page 1B

Tommy and Mary Beth Corrigan and their three children recently moved to Brevard from Queens, N.Y.

The retired firefighter and his photographer wife — who both had lived in Florida for a short period years ago — are now located in Port St. Lucie, where they purchased a 5,500-square-foot home in Vero Beach. What drew them was the area’s cost of living and proximity to New York. They say, “It’s a shorter drive to New York’s parks, its food and its deal-making, but not to the Empire State’s cost of living. And their children will grow up with sunshine, beaches and more. "This is a moister area for the kids to grow up, and it’s not as congested as New York," said Tommy Corrigan, 44, who jumped the red-state-to-blue state migration. They say they’re enjoying their move and that Brevard County have a really good reputation, and that was the big thing that attracted us to this area."

Thousands of others apparently feel the same, flocking to Florida and Brevard because of

See WEALTH, Page B4

INSIDE

BY THE NUMBERS

663 KINDERGARTNERS
or 12 percent of the kindergarten class were retained, including both TK1 students and kindergarten repeaters.

8,364 KINDERGARTNERS
or 41 percent, were held back across Florida

Source: Florida Department of Education

PUBLIC INTEREST

Is Obamacare worth the costs?

Florida premiums to rise, but they offer something in return, Public Interest Editor Matt Reed writes. Page 20A

SPACE COAST

Happy Birthday, Coast Guard

Rain doesn’t deter hundreds from attending the 22nd anniversary event at Port Canaveral.

Page 1B

SPORTS

Love of sport fuels coach

Strategy board game inspired Palm Bay High coach Dan Burke to coach football.

Page 1C

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

Glasses made in an hour or two in most cases.

321-259-3935 •

Students sit in Barbara Mazuro’s TK-1 class at Meadowlark Elementary School in West Melbourne.

MOMSENSE: ROYAL'S BELLY NICE SIGHT TO SEE

Opal Anderson enjoys what’s left of serenity in rural Palm Bay.

IN STYLE

Hitting a high note

Music store owners boost business by adding lounge, stage in business

SUPERSTORE

We Pay For Your Eye Exam

We Pay For Your Eye Exam

See WEALTH, Page 8A

FLORIDA TODAY

A GANNETT COMPANY

AUGUST 4, 2013 | SERVING BREvard COUNTY SINCE 1866 | FLORIDATODAY.COM

A TOUGH CALL

By Mackenzie Ryan

A TOUGH CALL

The fifth-grade year as a fresh

Start. Column, Page 1B

Tommy and Mary Beth Corrigan and their three children recently moved to Brevard from Queens, N.Y.

The retired firefighter and his photographer wife — who both had lived in Florida for a short period years ago — are now located in Port St. Lucie, where they purchased a 5,500-square-foot home in Vero Beach. What drew them was the area’s cost of living and proximity to New York. They say, “It’s a shorter drive to New York’s parks, its food and its deal-making, but not to the Empire State’s cost of living. And their children will grow up with sunshine, beaches and more. "This is a moister area for the kids to grow up, and it’s not as congested as New York," said Tommy Corrigan, 44, who jumped the red-state-to-blue state migration. They say they’re enjoying their move and that Brevard County have a really good reputation, and that was the big thing that attracted us to this area."

Thousands of others apparently feel the same, flocking to Florida and Brevard because of

See WEALTH, Page B4

INSIDE

BY THE NUMBERS

663 KINDERGARTNERS
or 12 percent of the kindergarten class were retained, including both TK1 students and kindergarten repeaters.

8,364 KINDERGARTNERS
or 41 percent, were held back across Florida

Source: Florida Department of Education

PUBLIC INTEREST

Is Obamacare worth the costs?

Florida premiums to rise, but they offer something in return, Public Interest Editor Matt Reed writes. Page 20A

SPACE COAST

Happy Birthday, Coast Guard

Rain doesn’t deter hundreds from attending the 22nd anniversary event at Port Canaveral.

Page 1B

SPORTS

Love of sport fuels coach

Strategy board game inspired Palm Bay High coach Dan Burke to coach football.

Page 1C

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

Glasses made in an hour or two in most cases.

321-259-3935 •

Students sit in Barbara Mazuro’s TK-1 class at Meadowlark Elementary School in West Melbourne.

MOMSENSE: ROYAL'S BELLY NICE SIGHT TO SEE

Opal Anderson enjoys what’s left of serenity in rural Palm Bay.

IN STYLE

Hitting a high note

Music store owners boost business by adding lounge, stage in business

SUPERSTORE

We Pay For Your Eye Exam

We Pay For Your Eye Exam

See WEALTH, Page 8A

FLORIDA TODAY

A GANNETT COMPANY

AUGUST 4, 2013 | SERVING BREvard COUNTY SINCE 1866 | FLORIDATODAY.COM
TK1

Continued from Page 1A

17 schools, a number that
Continued from Page 1A

Friends behind. Sporting '26, not '25, on his high school letter jacket. Turn-birthdays. With spring or summer
Continued from Page 1A

Continued from Page 1A

part of Brevard Public
Continued from Page 1A

Wisconsin-Madison. Before the holiday perfor-
Continued from Page 1A

age for their grade. And
Continued from Page 1A

TK1: satisfied parents.
Continued from Page 1A

no one considers it -
Continued from Page 1A

education
Continued from Page 1A

TK1 program has been a valuable option when
Continued from Page 1A

FCAT. During her 10 years as
Continued from Page 1A

1-800-345-5273
Continued from Page 1A

SWIM SALE
Continued from Page 1A

Dillard's
Continued from Page 1A

NEW REDUCTIONS JUST TAKEN!
Continued from Page 1A

LADIES DILLARD'S WOMAN JUNIORS
Continued from Page 1A

PLUS, SAVE ON WEAR-NOW FASHIONS!
Continued from Page 1A

LADIES DRESSES LADIES SPORTSWEAR
Continued from Page 1A

65% OFF ENTIRE STOCK
Continued from Page 1A

REGISTER FOR A WINNER!
Continued from Page 1A

A VERA BRADLEY CANVAS BACKPACK
Continued from Page 1A

A $109 value

LIMITED
Continued from Page 1A

LADIES DILLARD'S OFFICE
Continued from Page 1A

LADIES DILLARD'S PETITE
Continued from Page 1A

LADIES DILLARD'S DRESSES
Continued from Page 1A

LADIES DILLARD'S SPORTSWEAR
Continued from Page 1A

3A